10. Aims of the Programme

This Masters programme will engage the creative and collaborative skills of designers, directors, dramaturgs, technicians, producers, managers, and cross-disciplinary theatre-makers in the development and creation of new theatre and performance work.

Specifically, the programme aims to:

- Develop students' advanced-level analysis, communication, and interaction skills so that they can engage with complex theatre-making issues both systematically and creatively.
- Equip students to make sound judgements based on, and in the absence of, complete data, and to communicate clearly in group settings.
- Equip students with the ability to demonstrate self-direction, responsiveness and originality in problem-solving, and to act autonomously and collaboratively while theatre-making at a professional or equivalent level.
- Develop students' critical awareness of current issues and new insights informed by the forefront of collaborative practice and the students' chosen area of professional practice.
- Develop students' confidence, independence and self-reliance suitable to changing professional expectations and demands; and equip them with the ability to engage in continuing professional development.

The programme supports students' future career development by:

- Replicating the professional demands of contemporary theatre commissioning and execution;
- Providing direct contact with the profession via the teachers of the School, and formative activities with third parties and partners
- Supporting students to hone their collaborative and communication skills with both production team and performing company;
- Assessment by leading artists (internal professors and external assessors/examiners)
- Providing professionally equivalent production through the Guildhall School's Opera and Drama Departments.

11. Criteria for admission to the programme

A student admitted to the MA in Collaborative Performance Making programme will have specified, as part of the application process, their particular area of professional interest and experience. All applicants' skills and abilities will be considered with a view to building coherent and viable creative teams. Whilst the aim is to achieve a balanced cohort of areas of professional interest, the programme is designed to ensure that the overall learning experience of the cohort would not be detrimentally impacted should the intake have a significant proportion of students from a narrow range of disciplines. All students are strongly encouraged to explore other areas of practice as part of the programme, regardless of previous experience.

11.1 Selection Process

The admissions process consists of two stages:

Stage 1: An initial determination of suitability for the programme will be made based on the information provided on the application form, including a personal statement (500-1000 words) which outlines the applicant's creative engagement with contemporary theatre making, the motivation that informs their application and their potential to succeed on and benefit from the programme consistent with their future career aspirations.

Applicants are also required to submit a portfolio demonstrating their previous work in relation to their area of professional interest. The portfolio will be expected to evidence a good level of creative engagement with theatre making.

Applicants who are successful at Stage 1 will progress to Stage 2. Applicants who are not successful at Stage 1 will be informed with the reason why they have not been invited to interview. Decisions at the first stage will be taken by at least two members of teaching staff, including at least one member of the programme team.

Stage 2: Applicants who are successful at Stage 1 will be invited to attend an interview. This will usually be held in-person, although applicants may request an online interview. The interview will involve at least two members of teaching staff, including at least one from the programme team.

Final decisions for selection to the programme will be based on review of the portfolio and the interview. Attending the interview does not guarantee a place on the programme. All decisions and reasoning at each stage will be recorded appropriately.

11.2 Standard Entry Requirements

Applicants should normally have obtained an upper second class undergraduate degree with Honours in a subject relevant to the applicant's area of professional interest (or equivalent).

International qualifications can be accepted and a determination on equivalence will be made at the point of application. For further details on international qualifications please see our website.

11.3 English Language requirements

Applicants must be completely fluent in the English language. Fluency in English is considered equivalent to an overall score of at least 7.0 in the IELTS Academic examination, with a minimum of 6.0 in all components. Language proficiency is assessed at interview.

11.4 Non-standard entry procedure:

In exceptional circumstances, candidates whose abilities match the standards required for entry to a programme but whose formal qualifications do not meet the standard entry requirements may still be considered. These applicants would be expected to submit extra written and/or practical work, agreed in discussion with the Programme Leader.

The MA in Collaborative Performance Making programme complies with a school-wide Non-Standard Entry policy.

12. Programme Level Intended Learning Outcomes

The programme provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate the following learning outcomes. The curriculum map indicates how modules meet the overall programme learning outcomes and references QAA guidelines.

A. Technique and knowledge
On successful completion of this programme the student will be able to:
A1	Analyse information logically, drawing on their knowledge and experience base and calling on other references and resources to generate appropriate and creative solutions
A2	Make effective decisions based on available information, and use logical, rational and intuitive approaches to develop options and strategies to resolve issues
A3	Be able to contextualise their creative practice within contemporary Theatre and Performance Studies scholarship with a critical awareness of current insights

B. Performance and/or creative output
On successful completion of this programme the student will:
B1	Have comprehensive knowledge and understanding of developing a project from initial concept to fully realized production, while maintaining a high degree of motivation and commitment to producing original work of the highest possible standard.
B2	Have research-informed and experiential knowledge and understanding of generating imaginative, creative and innovative responses to the given stimulus, be that textual, musical or visual.
B3	Have developed a sense of themselves as an autonomous theatre practitioner, sufficiently confident in their own individual creative voice and purpose and in their technical and intellectual abilities to act independently and collaboratively in planning and implementing creative tasks.

C. Communication and artistic values

On successful completion of this programme the student will be able to:

C1	Present ideas and complex information in an engaging and confident way; communicating their conclusions clearly to specialist and non-specialist audiences
C2	Adapt their behaviour and methods in response to new information, changing conditions, or unexpected obstacles; involve others in problem solving, seeking multiple perspectives and solutions
C3	Accurately assess the motivations, concerns and values of others, and tailor their communicative approach accordingly
C4	Negotiate or influence strategies for the benefit of the production while ensuring that overall goals and changes are understood by the wider team
C5	Evaluate their artistic and professional standing within the theatre and visual arts industry with the independent learning ability required for continuing professional development

D. Professional protocols

On successful completion of this programme the student will:

D1	Have knowledge and understanding of the working practices of a range of professional partners
D2	Have developed effective skills in group interaction and decision-making in complex and unpredictable situations.
D3	Be aware of, and able to promote, personal responsibility, self-discipline, and professional codes of conduct, continuing to develop skills to a high level.
D4	Be able to use appropriate interpersonal skills to contribute to the development of a positive and cohesive creative team; understand the value of being sensitive to the work environment and the impact of their decisions and activities on other parts of the organization
D5	Have knowledge and understanding of managing time, competing priorities and resources in a structured way

13. Programme Structure

13.1 Programme Duration (years)

One academic year (September to September)

13.2 Mode of Delivery (full/part-time/other)

Full-time only

13.3 Total student learning hours

1800 notional hours

13.4 % Split teaching contact hours: self-directed practice & study

Contact hours: 21%

Self-directed practice & study: 79%

14. Teaching & Learning Methodology and Assessment Strategy

14.1 Teaching and Learning

In line with the overall aims of the programme teaching and learning is principally delivered through collaborative projects. These are supported by weekly group seminars and provision of individual mentors drawn from a pool of resident staff and professional practitioners. A high level of attendance and engagement is clearly required from the students.

During the first two weeks of the course students undertake a self-reflective skills audit and needs analysis. Where specific technical skills need to be addressed the student may consider structuring their Individual Research Project module appropriately. Choice of research topic is submitted to the supervisor for approval no later than Week 8 of the Autumn Term.

Throughout the programme assessment will be based on the following range of evidence:

- Self-reflective accounts
- Coursework
- Projects
- Group Work
- Practical Work
- Presentation
- Viva Voce

14.2 Assessment

The strategy for this MA programme blends a number of different modes of assessment:

- Reflective accounts and presentations
- Portfolio submission
- Evaluative essays
- Research essays and presentations
- Group practical work
- Peer assessment
- Viva voce

All work is double marked by two members of the Programme team, with a final mark arrived at through a moderation meeting prior to the postgraduate assessment board. This ensures parity for all students in the assessment of their work, and the final marks are then further considered by the appointed External Examiner.

14.3 Scheduling of Assessment

The assessment schedule for all modules will be published on Moodle and also distributed to students at the beginning of the academic year.

14.4 Feedback

Continuous formative feedback is given in seminars and one-to-one tutorials.

Summative feedback for each project is delivered verbally in a group tutorial held within one week of completion of each project. Both formative and summative assessment is supported by significant engagement with peer review and evaluation in order to encourage students to engage in an authentically collaborative experience over the course of the year. This is addressed initially in the Induction module and the process continues throughout the Principal Study module. If, at the end of the first term when the Induction and Project 1 have been completed, a student's participation or engagement is giving cause for concern the School's Participation Policy may be invoked. This mechanism will be used as necessary throughout the year.

17. Assessment Regulations

These regulations are in addition to the general assessment regulations for taught programmes in the Academic Regulations covering Assessment Board membership, attendance at examinations and submission of coursework (including late penalties), extenuating circumstances, external examiners and academic misconduct.

17.1. Module Regulations

In order to pass a module and acquire the associated credit, a student must complete all the assessment components of the module and achieve an aggregate weighted mark of no less than 50%. The module specification will indicate whether a pass, or minimum mark, is required for a specific component. Where not stated compensation across components will be assumed.

17.2. Reassessment / Re-sit Procedures

Where a student does not meet the overall weighted aggregate and/or fails to meet the minimum achievement required in a module component, the School Board of Examiners may offer a re-sit of the failed assessment component (or an equivalent task). For the Principal Study: Collaborative Practice module no re-sit will be permitted for failure of Projects, Group Work or Practical Work.

A module component may be re-sat only once.

The School Board of Examiners may, at its discretion, permit a student to re-sit during the course of the following year, with or without attendance.

A re-sit fee will be payable (re-sit fees are published on the School's website).

A student who successfully completes a re-sit will be awarded the minimum pass mark for the failed component and this capped mark will be used for the aggregate mark of the module. The only exception to this is for an academic misconduct failure (e.g. plagiarism, collusion) where, even though the module component must be re-sat and passed, the failed mark will be carried forward to the overall module aggregate mark

17.3. Fail Withdraw

Where, having exhausted any re-sit opportunities, a student fails to meet the pass requirements and is not eligible for the award of a lower level qualification, the Assessment Board shall recommend that the student withdraw from the programme.

17.4 Periods of Study

The maximum period of study including any repeat years and/or periods of deferral or interruption will be 3 years.

17.5. Award regulations

To qualify for the MA in Collaborative Performance Making, the student must satisfy the pass requirements for all modules totaling 180 credits. The overall result for the degree shall be calculated on the basis of the aggregate of the module marks weighted according to their credit value.

The classification shall be determined as follows:

Classification	Minimum %
With Distinction	69.5%
With Merit	59.5%
Pass without classification	49.5%

17.6 Further Regulations for Attendance and Engagement in classes, rehearsals, showings and performances, and for submission of written work

Students are reasonably expected to attend and fully engage with all scheduled classes and learning activities in which they are participating (whether on-site, off-site or online). Assessment deadlines will be published in advance, taking into account schedules.

Whilst acknowledging that unforeseen circumstances do sometimes occur that prevent a student from attending or engaging fully, nonetheless the programme requires a very high level of attendance and engagement in order that a student can meet the learning outcomes, fulfil the requirements of assessment and achieve a pass. Additionally, a high level of attendance and engagement is required in order that a student does not adversely affect the learning experience of other students as they study and work together as a team. Whilst acknowledging there may not be 100% attendance for good reason, this does not imply that a small amount of inexcusable absence is acceptable and students are reasonably expected to achieve a minimum of 80% attendance (whether on-site, off-site or online) in each taught module in order to pass.

When assessing a student's work, the quality of the work is a key factor, however excused absence both generally and/or at specific assessment points may result in a reduction of marks and possible failure of a module if the learning outcomes have not been met. Unexcused non-participation in key assessment points may result in a zero mark for that module.

In case of persistent problems with attendance, punctuality or engagement, students face action under the School's Academic Engagement Regulations and Procedures as well as jeopardising the result of their module.

If a student is seriously unwell and cannot come in to School, the student must contact Production Arts & Drama Administration, preferably before their first scheduled class is due to start and will need to phone in on subsequent days unless formally signed-off sick. If the absence persists for more than 5 days, students are expected to provide authoritative medical evidence of their illness.

If, for good reason, a student wants to be excused in advance from a scheduled learning activity the student must seek permission from their Programme Leader, and if it is granted, inform the relevant tutor(s) in good time and submit a formal request through the School's online student portal eGo.

Absence due to ill health affecting a key assessment point must be covered by adequate medical certification (as defined in the School's policy 'Attendance at examinations & submission of coursework' in 'General assessment regulations for taught programmes'). The requirement to provide adequate medical certification as defined in this School policy may also be invoked in the case of persistent problems with attendance or engagement due to ill health.

Requests for an extension to a submission deadline should be submitted in writing to the Programme Leader. Where the Programme Leader considers there to be good reason for allowing an extension, a revised submission date shall be set and the student informed

Extenuating circumstances for non-participation, late submission or non-submission of written work include, but are not limited to serious chronic illness and death or serious illness of close family member. Circumstances within the control of a student, or circumstances which are foreseeable and avoidable would not normally be classed as extenuating circumstances. All applications for Extenuating Circumstances are considered under the School's Extenuating Circumstances policy.

The School's Extenuating Circumstances panel makes final recommendation on the granting of extensions. The student is expected to comply with all submission requirements for written work regardless of whether an extension has been approved or not.

17.7 Alternative Assessment Arrangements for Re-sits

Where a student is permitted to re-sit a failed assessment component but it is not deemed practicable to replicate the method of assessment (i.e. where a module component is assessed by means of continuous assessment or a large-scale collaborative stage production) an appropriate alternative re-sit assessment will be set wherever possible. Alternative assessment proposals will take into account the module level and the learning outcomes and shall be subject to approval by the relevant Assessment Board. Please note For the Principal Study: Collaborative Practice module no re-sit will be permitted for failure of Projects, Group Work or Practical Work.

9. Aims of the Module

This module aims to:

- Familiarise students with the requirements of the Collaborative Performance Making programme and with the opportunities for learning available within the School.
- Improve students' ability to reflect on their skills and analyse their needs.
- Establish the protocols and boundaries of artistic collaboration in contemporary live performance including self and peer evaluation techniques.
- Develop each student's capacity to reflect intelligently on the nature of collaborative working.
- Introduce students to presentation techniques, including use of portfolios.
- Introduce students to safe working practices in the building (and theatre more generally) and provide them with rudimentary instruction in theatre stagecraft.
- Introduce general research and professional development issues of relevance to all postgraduate students.

10. Teaching & Assessment Methodology

Initial induction to the programme will include a range of sessions, which explain the overall structure of the course and assessment criteria, examine the practicalities of collaborating and the principles of devising performance.

Group and individual tutorials will explore the students' previous experience and skills and consider further developmental needs and how they may be addressed.

A series of creative workshop activities will be the primary feature of this induction module, supplemented by inductions from various departments in the Production Arts and Drama departments. Students are also introduced to the practice of self and peer assessment techniques, presentation techniques and the use of portfolios.

Students will develop a joint project on a given theme. Each student may take responsibility for a different aspect of the project, developing plans or designs as appropriate, or the group may share responsibility across all areas. Students will share their work with the group at regular weekly intervals.

The whole group will make a final presentation of the project in week 6 of the Autumn Term. After the project the Programme Leader and staff engaged in the project meet to discuss each student's work. Each student's work is jointly marked by the Programme Leader and at least one other tutor.

Students will be assessed in three areas: their development and contribution throughout the workshop activity, the quality of their final creative output, and a self-reflective account of 1500-2000 words that explores their creative, collaborative and production process through this module.

11. Learning outcomes: On successful completion of the module students will have achieved various skills and abilities. Please refer to the Programme Specification for descriptions of the skills codes listed below:

A1, B2, B3, C1, C2, C3, C4, D2, D3, D4

9. Aims of the Module

This module is at the centre of the Collaborative Performance Making programme.

This module aims to:

- Develop advanced communication and interaction skills to support collaborative theatre making and performance.
- Further develop the students' capacity to reflect on the overall collaborative process and on their role as a collaborative practitioner.
- Enable students to enhance their technical and creative skills in the development of theatre making.
- Provide students with experiences and opportunities in line with their development, to enable them to apply their collaborative theatre-making skills and feel confident in identifying and understanding their own artistic vision.
- Develop students' confidence, independence and self-reliance necessary for a life of changing professional expectations and demands.

10. Teaching & Assessment Methodology

Students collaborate in one or more creative teams which will form and re-form throughout the year working on a series of projects. The composition of the teams will principally be determined by the students themselves but will be guided by the module supervisor to ensure that each student is included in at least one team. The module is delivered through weekly production seminars, one-to-one mentoring and coaching and collaborative production work on a series of projects across the year, each culminating in the production of a final performance or event.

Students will normally engage in four projects throughout the year – a typical schedule might look like this:

- a. Project 1 – Creation of a new performative event presented at the end of the Autumn term in the studio theatre at Guildhall School
- b. Project 2 – A Collaboration with an external company (Theatre or Arts organisation), performed mid-way through the Spring term
- c. Project 3 - An immersive residential project at the end of the Spring term
- d. Project 4 – A final collaborative performative event presented at the end of the summer term in the Milton Court theatre at Guildhall School.

The timing and emphasis of these different projects will reflect the timing and emphasis of the roles in any theatrical development process.

At the weekly production seminars students will discuss their individual and collective process and will have the opportunity to develop their skills in self and peer evaluation techniques.

Some students may wish to engage in larger scale work and students with appropriate experience and skills may apply to undertake a major role on one of the School's regular opera or drama productions. If their application is successful the production would take the place of one of the four projects.

Students are required to submit 'reflective documentation' after each project. Specific guidance for this piece of work is to:

- a. Discuss at least two other works (or practitioners) in the field of theatre and the visual arts, or beyond, that have significantly shaped the creation of the project
- b. Reflect on three key learning moments in the recent devising and production process, and describe how these might influence your developing practice.

The indicative word-count for this piece of work is 3000 words. Students are welcome to submit it in other media, for example a video or audio piece, which should last 20 minutes. Alternative methods for completing the work can be discussed with the Programme Leader.

Each student's role in each project will vary depending on the specifics of the given project; both their contribution to the creative process as evidenced in the weekly production seminars, project de-brief meeting and creative diary and the level of success with which the final output or product is realized will contribute to the students' overall mark.

Marks are given at the end of each project for the show as a whole, for each student's reflective documentation, and for their individual contribution to the process. After each project the Programme Leader and staff engaged in the project meet to discuss each student's work. Each project is jointly marked by the Programme Leader and at least one other tutor.

After the second project a mid-year review of each students work will be conducted giving students the opportunity to discuss their progress and receive formative feedback.

In keeping with the emphasis on collaboration throughout the programme feedback from peers will be taken into account as part of the final assessment. Peer assessment activity scheduled at the end of the year engages students in reflection and analysis of their journey to that point. Students use a pro-forma to blind mark against criteria shown in the assessment of Group Work.

Students are required to submit a professional portfolio creating a portrait of their skills and achievements, suitable for showing to a prospective employer. This will be handed in two weeks after the final project has been completed, and is worth 15% of the module mark.

11. Learning outcomes: On successful completion of the module students will have achieved various skills and abilities. Please refer to the Programme Specification for descriptions of the skills codes listed below:

A1, A2, B1, B2, B3, C1, C2, C3, C4, C5, D1, D2, D3, D4, D5

18.3 Integration

1. Module Title	Integration
2. HE Level	7
3. Credit Value	20 credits
4. SITS module code	CPM4003
5. Location of Delivery	Guildhall School
6a. Module Type	Taught
6b. Applicable in the year of study	Year 1
7. Module Leader	Programme Leader
8. Department	Production Arts
9. Aims of the Module

This module aims to:

- Develop students' comprehensive understanding of, and demonstrable capacity for, the research and self-critical skills involved in preparing and processing their artistic and professional projects.
- Enable students to evaluate critically their creative processes and experiences in a manner which demonstrates self-awareness and research capacity, achieving a fruitful balance between emotional involvement and critical detachment.
- Consolidate in the students the ability for communicating clearly in the creative collaborative process.
- Enhance students' skills in generating professionally presentable written and audio or visual material.

10. Teaching & Assessment Methodology

Students evaluate the creative processes they have explored during the year and the work that has contributed to the four practical projects that they have undertaken as part of their Principle Study module. This activity is supported by weekly production seminars. The programme's mentoring sessions offered as part of the Principal Study module will also support this module.

Students are required to submit a substantive self-reflective account (3,000-3,500 words) illuminated by relevant supporting material which can be offered in a variety of formats (film, web-based material, sketches, photographs, excerpts from the creative diary etc). Support in developing the self-reflective account and supporting material is provided in the form of group and individual tutorials throughout the year.

A mid-year formative assessment point will assess the student's progress with this coursework element.

Each student will also take part in a 30-minute viva (held in mid-September). The viva will allow examiners to interrogate points raised in the self-reflective account and also provides the student with an opportunity to critique their account.

After the viva the Programme Leader and staff engaged in the project meet to discuss each student's work. Each student's work is jointly marked by the Programme Leader and at least one other tutor.

11. Learning outcomes: On successful completion of the module students will have achieved various skills and abilities. Please refer to the Programme Specification for descriptions of the skills codes listed below:

A2, A3, B3, C1, C5, D3

9. Aims and learning outcomes of the module

This module aims to:

- Further develop students' research skills and introduce them to a range of relevant paradigms and methods
- Encourage students to draw on their experience to expand their knowledge base by calling on references and resources to generate critical and creative scholarly work
- Contextualise students' practice-research within contemporary Theatre and Performance scholarship as well as within School research activities.

10. Teaching & Assessment Methodology

This module allows students to develop independently a specialist area of research. Under the guidance of the module tutor and in consultation with staff who have expertise in the student's area of interest, the student will develop a research project of their choice, which will encompass areas such as seminar presentations, and dissertation writing.

Students' research is supported through the provision of group and individual tutorials throughout the year.

Assessment comprises:

- a 20-minute presentation to their peers on the progress of their chosen specialist topic (20%)
- a written research paper of 6,000 words (+/- 10%) (80%)

After the presentation the programme team meet to discuss each student's work. Each student's work is marked by the Programme Leader and one other tutor.

11. Programme learning outcomes
